COL. PICQUART DEMONSTRATES THAT THE REAL AUTHOR OF THE BORDEAU WAS ESTERHAZY.

The Brave and Brilliant Officer Analyzes the Secret Dossier and Riddles With Merciless Logic the Flimsy Fabric of Evidence Presented by the Prosecution.

GENERAL ROGET, THE FOE OF DREYFUS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Licensed Wire. RENNES, Aug. 18.—When the second trial by court martial of Captain Dreyfus, charged with treason, was resumed in the Lyons at 7:30 this morning, Colonel Picquart, former chief of the intelligence department of the War Office, was called to the witness stand, and continued his deposition, which was interrupted yesterday by the adjournment of court for the day.

Colonel Picquart gave his testimony in the same loud, far-reaching voice that characterized his manner yesterday. He began by declaring he thought it necessary to immediately reply to General Roget's verbiage arrangement of him while on the stand.

At the outset of Colonel Picquart's remarks, Roget interrupted and said he would reply to them.

Continuing, Colonel Picquart proceeded to discuss the secret dossier as being the masterpiece of the contamination of Dreyfus. He took up the documents successively, referring to the witness and addresses of the latter as "A" and "B."

At this point General Roget arose and said: "I wish to be allowed to reply."

"You shall," said Colonel Jouanet, Colonel Picquart, continuing, said: "I protest absolutely against the allegations that I consented to the communication of the secret dossier to the members of the Dreyfus court-martial, without the prisoner's knowledge. I never ordered such communication, and if it was done, it was without my cognizance. I hasten to add that in my opinion it would have been an insult to the court to be

Thomas Campbell Makes an Attempt at Suicide.

Have its members would lend themselves to such machinations. I am ready, I repeat, to reply to every question. I will only point out that all General Roget has recounted in detail was published in general terms, in the Gaulois, January 2nd.

ANALYZES THE DOSSIER. After dealing with the testimony of the experts at the court-martial of 1894, Picquart proceeded to examine the secret dossier, a close analysis of which, he asserted, was particularly necessary, owing to the weight the document had with the members of the court-martial in 1894.

Thomas Campbell, who is confined in the County Jail awaiting sentence for having, with some companions robbed P. Perrault of $2, attempted to commit suicide this morning by cutting his throat with a piece of tin plate.

Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning Campbell asked James F. O'Brien, one of the prisoners, to close the window of his cell. O'Brien complied with his request. A few minutes later Joe Conroy passed Campbell's cell and opened the window to see what he was doing. He saw Campbell seated on a stool with his back to the door. He was looking into a mirror in front of him and was sawing his throat with a piece of the tin plate.

W. A. Brandes who has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his daughter, and Conroy rushed into Campbell's cell and stopped him. Jailers Schornau and Wages were called and went to Campbell's cell. They found him sitting on the edge of his bunk smoking a cigarette. He had tied a piece of cloth around his neck. When asked what he was trying to do, he replied: "Oh, I was just trying to cut off a plume on my neck."

CAUGHT

Man Who Shot Laborer Arrested and Makes Confession.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Licensed Wire. RENNES, Aug. 18.—The man who attempted to murder Maitre Labori leading counsel for Captain Dreyfus, has been arrested at Dol, in this department. His name is Glonot, he is a native of the department of Cotes du Nord, and has confessed.

Glonor was arrested because he said in a cabaret yesterday: "I am the man who shot Labori."

The police now, it is believed, think the prisoner is only a lunatic or a drunkard and desirous of attracting attention, and his so-called confession may turn out to be nothing more than an empty boast.

J. WEST MARTIN, BANKER AND REGENT, CLAIMED BY DEATH AFTER LONG ILLNESS

CLOSE OF LIFE OF HONOR AND USEFULNESS.

Many Years a Regent of the State University.

He Was the President of the Union Savings Bank.

At One Time He Served as Mayor of the City and Made a Grand Record.

THE LATE HON. J. WEST MARTIN.

J. West Martin died early this morning at his home, 720 Fourteenth street. He had been ill several months.

The death of J. West Martin, one of California's foremost citizens, is a great public calamity. Whilst a resident of Alameda county, for a great number of years his fame was State wide, and his efforts for the public good confined to no particular section.

Born in Maryland in 1822, he left home at the early age of 14 to begin the battle of life. He first settled in Memphis, Tennessee, where, for a number of years, he pursued an honorable and prosperous mercantile career. Whilst not, strictly speaking, a pioneer, he arrived in California in 1853, and since that time has been one of the State's most active, intelligent and energetic citizens.

Mr. Martin came to Oakland a great many years ago and engaged in the banking business, and for many years has been president of the Union Savings Bank and a director in a large number of other prosperous business corporations.

In addition to conducting large business enterprises the deceased has always been one of the foremost of the citizens in the interests of the public. He was a member of the Constitutional Convention and, whilst he did not support that instrument in its entirety, yet many of its best features are largely due to the painstaking efforts of Mr. Martin and others, who devoted months of their time in arduous work upon the committees and in advocacy of their views upon the floor of the convention.

The deceased was elected Mayor of Oakland as a Democrat, which was in no sense a party triumph, but simply a tribute to his well known ability and integrity. His messages to the Council are papers which are well worthy of the perusal of his successors in office.

He was appointed Regent of the State University by the lamented Governor H. H. Haight, whose friend and counselor he was for a large number of years. The work of Mr. Martin as a Regent is indelibly impressed upon the history of the institution. He was chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee, and, while a busy man in his own personal affairs, gave largely of his time to the interests of the University, which had grown up largely under his supervision.

His associates on the Board of Regents appointed a committee to pass suitable resolutions upon his retirement from the board, which occurred only a few weeks ago. Next to his family, the University was the object of his most solicitous and tender care, and it is a well known fact that, during more than a quarter of a century of service, he incurred the enmity of no man connected with the institution, having joined it in 1871. His services to the State University have been constant and varied, and for many years he has been the leading spirit of the Committee on Grounds and Buildings.

In 1879 Regent Martin, as a member of the Committee on Education in the Constitutional Convention, rendered estimable services to the charge which he always had so much at heart, the State University. His address before that body was an important factor in carrying the report declaring the University a public trust and ordaining that it shall be perpetually continued under its existing form and character prescribed by the organic act passed March 23d, 1868.

The adoption of that report marked the emerging of the State University from its most trying crisis and its deliverance from what had appeared to be a rising sentiment of misunderstanding and destined to greatly retard its progress and impair its usefulness. The important part which Regent J. West Martin has taken in the continuing and difficult task of building up California's crowning institution of learning, cannot be better described than it has been in those words of Professor William Carey Jones, in his history of the University:

"J. West Martin, the senior member among the appointed Regents, began his indefatigable services to the University in 1871 as successor to Regent Wait. He has labored unceasingly and unselfishly for the institution in which he has taken the liveliest interest and pride. He has been its unflinching friend at all times. Resident in Oakland and chairman of the Committee on Buildings and Grounds, he has made it his personal duty to constantly watch the progress of the University. Along with Regents Winans and Hager, he was a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1879 and there did noble service for the cause of higher education. His thorough and accurate knowledge of the University's affairs was of the greatest value at that time. His speech on the administration of the land grant and on the consolidation of the funds, vindicated before the committee the management of the University."

Up to within a few months ago Mr. Martin was a hale, vigorous and active citizen. Then his health began to fail and, since that time, he has been confined entirely to his house and, latterly, to his bed. Up to a few days of his death he took an active interest in all passing events, and was as cheerful and serene as though he supposed his life would be prolonged for many years, although the fact was well known that his hours were numbered.

Many years ago Mr. Martin married Mrs. Jane Carneal, a daughter of Hon. Henry S. Foote of Mississippi, and leaves surviving him one son, Shelby Foote Martin, paying teller of the Union Savings Bank. Mr. Martin was also the uncle of Hon. William D. English, Warren B. English and John M. English.

There is no one who has even known him, in political or social life, who does not regret his loss, and all of them will probably unite in the sentiment of the poet in saying:

"Green grow the turf above him, Friend of my younger days; None knew him but to love him. None knew him but to praise."

ARRIVAL OF THE CUP CHALLENGER.

The Shamrock and the Erin Sail Safely Into New York Harbor.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Licensed Wire. NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock, challenger for the America's cup, reached this port today accompanied by her tender, the steam yacht Erin. The Shamrock sailed from Dublin, on the Clyde, August 2d, and made the trans-Atlantic voyage in much quicker time than had been anticipated.

Most of the towing was done after passing the Azores, August 9th. At Guantanamo the yachts were promptly cleared.

The Shamrock was yawl rigged and painted light green. She carried the blue ensign of the British navy with Sir Thomas Lipton's private signal, green shamrock on yellow ground with a green border. The Shamrock shows a light silver in metal where the paint has been scraped from her side. The crew of the yacht are well satisfied with the behavior of the challenger. On board the Erin was Chevalier Martino, marine painter to the Queen.

MANY TOWNS ARE REPRESENTED

HORSES BURNED IN A BARN.

Disastrous Fire on a Farm Near Livermore.

LIVERMORE, Aug. 18.—About 8:30 Wednesday night while the farm hands were feeding the stock in the barn on the old "Townsend Ranch" about four miles east from Livermore, the barn exploded, setting the building on fire. There were about twenty horses in the barn and all were killed. A number of the animals, said to be between three and six years old, rushed madly back to burning building and were cremated. About 500 sacks of barley, a large quantity of hay besides harnesses, agricultural implements, and numerous other articles were destroyed. The loss will amount to $1000 or $5000 with light insurance. A. Blackwell owned the land and the loss of the stock and contents of the barn will fall on him. The ranch was owned by an English gentleman and was in charge of R. H. Guthrie & Company of San Francisco.

A fruit car has been specially placed at the depot for the loading of cucumbers and spinach leaves to be used in beautifying the city on reception day and the railroad company will transport the shipment free of charge on today's train. The school children will make liberal donations to the car.

CASES MUST NOW BE TRIED.

EQUALIZERS IN TROUBLE.—The Board of Equalization has found out that it has quite a job on its hands in endeavoring to raise the assessors' figures. It will be necessary to raise the figures of every property owner in town. Of these there are about 5,000. Last night the board got down to work and prepared a list of 100 names. As at this rate it would take about ninety days to do the work, and this time is out of the question, it is probable that the board will notify only a certain number of the property owners.

OAKLAND ELKS MAKE CONTRIBUTION.

At the meeting of the Oakland Lodge of Elks last night there was a large and enthusiastic gathering of members, and an appropriation of $25.00 was made with great enthusiasm to be added to the fund contributed by Alameda county to defray the expenses of a reception to the members of the First California Regiment on their return from Manila.

The lodge is a noble one, which will readily find favor with people who know the results of war. It was the resolution to encourage in every way the raising of a fund which should be applied to relieve the wants, which are so numerous, of the widows and orphans of the gallant boys from Alameda county who have fallen in the war since the firing of the first shot in Cuba.

The lodge took the stand that these bereaved ones, and their families, in many instances of their only means of support, must of necessity be in straightened circumstances, and to look to their welfare and bring solace to them would be the first thing that would be expected of the community as a nation, and which they gave up their lives to save.

The Lodge of Elks stands ready to contribute to the nucleus of the fund, and there are scores of other organizations which will be willing to do the same thing.

BANNER WEEK FOR THE POPULAR DEWEY

There is no statement in the popularity of "The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown," the laughable comedy that has delighted the patrons of the Dewey this week. Another big audience witnessed its production last night, and the comedy was heartily enjoyed. The cake walk specialty has proved one of the biggest hits in the history of the house, and evokes peals of laughter nightly. The popularity of the Dewey keeps on increasing as rapidly as it has of late, the management will have to increase the seating capacity of the house somehow, as it is being strained to the utmost now. There will be the usual matinee tomorrow.

LIGHTING THE COUNTY ROAD.

Egbert Stone Makes Proposition to the Committee.

The committee of citizens of Oakland and towns along the county road to Haywards which was organized for the purpose of securing the lighting of the road met last night in the rooms of the Merchants' Exchange. H. Blake, Elmhurst; D. C. Brown, Merchants' Exchange, Oakland, and J. H. Haas, Trustee, Haywards.

J. N. Frank of San Leandro presided and Wilbur Walker of this city acted as secretary.

Mr. Walker presented a proposition from E. B. Stone in behalf of the Oakland, San Leandro, and Haywards Electric Railway to put in forty or more lights to be lighted according to the moonlight schedule while the electric current was used in propelling the cars of the line, for $4800 a month.

PHONICS AT SHELL MOUND PARK.

THURSDAY—AUGUST 17, 1899.
An Italian has secured a monopoly of the boot-black business at Washington, D. C., and is said to clear up $2000 a year at the business. Want a shining example for the rest of his countrymen.

Beldere is going to have "A Night in Venice" for the dedication of the new set. What is the matter with her phobias? She is, setting up "An Afternoon at Mignon" entertainment, just as a sort of set-off.

Iowa Democrats have secured for fusion, and have actually made up a State ticket on these lines. That must be the part of the country where it is said that in some districts the natives do not know the civil war is over.

The Pullman estate has just paid an inheritance tax of over $100,000, but by the success with which the business is being pursued upon the lines mapped out by its founder, it would not be surprising to find it writing on its tombstone the epithet "The Sleeping Wolf."

As a "scandalous disclosure" it is now announced that for the couple of years immediately preceding the recent war Spain had spies throughout the United States. If she never gets any better returns for her money than she obtained from them, it is little wonder that she is bankrupt.

A happy matrimonial combination has just been effected in Southern California. A man who has been employed in a Los Angeles restaurant has married a good-looking girl and dined with her at the restaurant. This is a case, therefore, of the marriage of a dumb waiter to a dumb belle.

Emperor William and his wife, the Empress, have just left the Capital of his empire and eleven picked men to man the Shomrock in the Cuban coast. Perhaps that was what he wanted to do when he said, "Our next trouble will be with Germany." Now that the English fleet, built in Scotland and manned by Irishmen, is to be manœvered by Germans, we should be easily able to "make mauls" of the pretensions to the cup. It will set the "warrior" of it, anyhow.

General Barker, the Commander-in-Chief of the British forces in South Africa, has just been promoted to the rank of lieutenant-general, and has in consequence been promoted to make way for a more loyal man. He and Arkinson of Boston would make a good team, for they are both anti-imperialists and "reformists" of the first order.

THE MARRIED TEACHER PROBLEM.
The Superior Court of San Francisco is to pass upon the much-attacked rule of the Board of Education that declares vacant the position of every female teacher who marries. The issue has come up in a sensational way over the fact that a teacher who had been dismissed on that score refused to vacate and was promptly removed from the schoolroom by police officers, who remained on guard until her successor was duly installed.

Although excellent arguments can be advanced on each side of the question, it looks as if these in favor of the rule have the advantage of the situation. When a woman marries, the supposition is that her husband provides her with a home and supports her. The reverse of this is repugnant to every principle of manhood. As an inference, therefore, it may be stated that a married teacher is no longer under the necessity of continuing her labors from the standpoint of self-support.

Now, as the number of places in the school department is limited, and as for every teacher employed there are five or six young women awaiting an opportunity to earn their livelihood, it scarcely seems just to allow a position to be occupied by one whose necessities are longer or demand it. In these days of advanced ideas upon the woman question, everyone wants to see them endowed with every possible opportunity to make their own living, but it certainly does seem as if the privileges should primarily belong to those who are dependent upon themselves. A woman with the intelligence possessed by the average teacher is not likely to join hands in wedlock with a man who is unable to support her, and there seems no good reason, therefore, why she should be clamoring for a right to earn her bread and butter afterwards.

J. WEST MARTIN.
In the death of J. West Martin Oakland loses an honored citizen, and one who did much to shape the destinies of this city. Mr. Martin was one of the forceful, energetic men who came to California in the early fifties, and his strength of character and rugged honesty made him a conspicuous figure even among the remarkable men whose impress on the affairs of this State has been so deep and lasting.

A man of unusually fine business abilities, Mr. Martin was never so engrossed in the accumulation of the large fortune that rewarded his talents that he could not find time to discharge his civic duties with all the zeal and intelligence that characterized the management of his private affairs. His admirable record as Mayor of Oakland, and his long and honorable service as Regent of the State University eloquently attest Mr. Martin's public spirit and integrity.

In the many years of his residence in Oakland Mr. Martin was a tower of strength in business circles, and it is a convincing proof of his noble nature that in his strenuous and active career he should have made so few enemies and have left so many friends who mourn his death as a personal bereavement.

Upright in all his business relations, kindly, just and generous in social life, a man whose watchword was duty and whose life was an open book has gone to his long rest, leaving behind him something more precious than wealth—the memory of a useful and honorable life.

GLOOMY FOR DREYFUS.
As the Dreyfus case progresses the conviction is gradually being forced upon those who are keeping close watch on every development that there is a very strong probability that he will, for the second time, be found guilty. Even though the correspondence of the American and English newspapers are inclined to favor everything in his favor and to make the most of every incident that tends to his exoneration, the strong undercurrent running in the other direction asserts itself with startling frequency.

It is lamentable that the prisoner, whose defense should have been so weakened by the shifting of his latest counsel, should have been so weakly defended. Indeed, it is almost incredible that the brilliant young lawyer, who with a credit in counseling on hand as a Democrat, Dreyfus' case could be so badly, except through natural weakness. While there should be no attempt to prejudice a case until both sides have been presented, it must at least be admitted that the prosecution, instead of having no evidence at all, as was asserted before the trial began, is making some very strong points against the accused.

It is a popular thing to say that in a country like ours it would be impossible to convict Dreyfus upon the circumstantial evidence that is being presented, and it is also usual to make adverse comments upon the procedure in France, and to claim that it is grossly unfair to a defendant. It should, however, be remembered that Dreyfus is being tried on circumstantial and that under similar conditions here the taking of testimony would be much more rigorous and conducted with a far greater latitude as to the introduction of evidence than in this country. As for the system that permits a witness to argue the case as he gives his testimony, it can at least be said that careful study has the same opportunity in this regard, and here as there are therefore.

The sympathy of the entire world may be said to be with Dreyfus, but that will not count for the verdict that will be rendered for the honor of the French army upon the result, and if there is sufficient evidence of his guilt, the officers constituting the court-martial will not be likely to be swayed by public opinion.

How the result goes, it seems certain that France will have a crisis to face, for in times of the old bloodthirsty revolutionary spirit is creeping on and the country will feel that it can avoid a national calamity.

THE ROUNDERS.
Supervisor John Mitchell has returned from his deer hunt in the Livermore mountains. He told me that he left the deer running wild, so that his friend, City Auditor Breed, would have a chance to round them up. Arthur is still in pursuit of the deer.

I saw Major Waters do the cake walk last evening. The Major is a fraud as a cake walker. When it comes to chimney sweeping, however, that is another matter.

Oakland has lost a respected citizen in the death of J. West Martin. I knew him as a friend. He was one of the big men of the city.

I have been informed by Chief Hodgkins that I made a mistake in stating that Sergeant Clark was at the cake walk for three hours. The item should have referred to Sergeant McKinley. The Chief says that the sergeants are expected to do their duty like any other officers.

The prosecution in the light cases is getting very weary. It seems to me that it will be a hard matter to secure a conviction in any case.

PRETTY WEDDING ACROSS THE BAY TO JUDGE HALL.
Miss Jordan and C. A. Says His Honor Has Kierulff Joined in Wedlock. Not Treated Him Fairly.

Miss Alice L. Jordan and Charles A. Kierulff of Berkeley were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's father, William H. Jordan, the well known attorney and ex-Speaker of the Assembly, at 1118 Gough street, San Francisco.

In the main parlor an artistic bower wrought with asparagus ferns and white sweet peas had been erected in the bay window. Suspended from the center were two floral baskets, over which rested a white dove with outstretched wings. It is there that the couple pledged their truth in the presence of Rev. Mr. Shaw, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Berkeley. The immediate relatives and intimate friends were the only ones chosen to witness the nuptials.

The decorations of the room in which the ceremony took place were in white and green, while in the back parlor, dining room and hall sweet peas and greens were used in profusion.

Miss Jordan wore the conventional white bridal robe. The material was of tulle, the skirt elaborately trimmed with hangings of the silk, edged with plaitings of white chiffon and finished with a delicate train. The bodice had a yoke of green silk, and was adorned with duchesse satin lace. A high stock of satin and belt of the same were also worn. The long tulle veil was attached to the bodice with a cluster of sweet peas. Her ornaments were pearls, the gift of the bride's father. White carnations formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Edith Treanor, the maid of honor, wore a gown of white tulle, delicately trimmed with Valenciennes lace. She carried a large bouquet of white flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother, George Kierulff.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, and later the newly married pair left for their honeymoon, which is to include a visit of a couple of weeks at the Hotel Coronado. Upon their return they will reside in Berkeley, at the home of the groom's parents.

The bride is well known socially, being a member of the Western Golf and Country Club and also of the Poinciana. She is a striking brunette and possesses a vivacious manner.

Mr. Kierulff is a son of Captain I. N. Kierulff of Berkeley, the prominent capitalist. For the past ten years he has been connected with the Western Sugar Company.

Among those present were Frank Jordan of Oakland, uncle of the bride, Mrs. Henry Lee George, Mrs. Miss Edith Treanor, Miss Lucy and the Misses May.

CAKE WALK DRAWS FINE AUDIENCES.
The International Cake Walk Carnival at the Exposition building has been a remarkable success in all ways. The opening has exceeded in point of pay attendance any similar event held in the city recently. Cake walking seems to have caught on not only in San Francisco, but in Oakland, judging from the interest evoked and the sale of tickets. The second night of the carnival, which was the first of the Pacific coast day, was between Prof. McKillop, a local champion of considerable renown, who with his partner walked for points against Everett A. Brown and Miss Annie Kelly, the winner of the Pacific coast day, and the champion of San Francisco, Francisco (Carnival) and John and Martha Steward, the colored champions. Major Waters had a very lively contest for points with George Steward.

The electric cake walk was given in Oakland and exceeds in points of beauty anything ever attempted in this line in the country. The management has had two of the finest sets of storage batteries, carrying twenty lights, ever made in this country, and they are worn by little Harry Mangels and Etta Aronson, two of the best juvenile cake walkers in the world. The little children take naturally to the beautiful evolutions and take great pride in their accomplishments. Master Harry, the winner of the Pacific coast day, and little Etta is an Oakland miss and native daughter. The children have been secured by the State Agricultural Society for their appearance at the Sacramento State Fair in conjunction with two local champions and Miss Pearl Hickman, drum major. They will give the electric cake walk, and the citizens of Sacramento are promised something extra good.

A fine program has been arranged for this evening.

MISS JORDAN AND C. A. SAYS HIS HONOR HAS KIERULFF JOINED IN WEDLOCK. NOT TREATED HIM FAIRLY.
Attorney Garrity this morning stated that his relations with Judge Hall were entirely friendly.

"Accounts of our meeting on the street yesterday have been grossly exaggerated," he said. "I simply told him what I thought of his calling me down in the way he did."

"He had no right to censure me in that manner. I have never obtained any conviction in his court with the exception of the Von Kapp case which I was not called into until 10 o'clock the night before the case came up."

"I have been working night and day and have had no vacation at all as yet. My wife has been sick and every minute I could spare I have been at the hospital with her."

"I have had to turn over good cases for some of these little appointments of his. That's what makes me mad."

"Why can't he appoint some of these young lawyers to defend these cases? They would be only too glad to have the practice."

"However, my relations with Judge Hall are quite friendly and I would as soon try a case in his court as in any other."

THIS ARE WE JUDGED.
This is the maxim they swear most by. And the young reporter may take the "It isn't the stuff you write that counts. But what gets into print."

Reams and reams of paper are filed each day by stenographers and editors. With burning thoughts and eloquent words.

From the teeming brains of men. And the editor sits with his pencil blue. And winnows the wheat from the chaff. And what survives of the stuff writ down is a good bit less than half.

Men who win are the men who find The shortest way to the best; They write no more than they have to know.

And the desk man does the rest. And this should the adjective worshiper know!

The reporter wins renown As much by the stuff he doesn't write As that which he writeth down.

Mark then the maxim they swear most by. It's a rule of the office hard as flint. "It isn't the stuff you write that counts. But what gets into print."

GREAT WORKERS SLEEP LITTLE.
Some of the greatest workers of our day have done with much less than eight hours of sleep. Dr. James Legzie, professor of Chinese in the University of Oxford, who has recently died at the age of eighty-two, was, it is said, in the habit of rising at 3 a. m. and allowing himself only five hours of sleep. Brunel, the famous engineer, for considerable part of his life worked nearly twenty hours a day. Sir George J. Elliot, who died last week, was in command throughout the great siege of Gibraltar, which lasted four years, never during all that time slept more than four hours out of the twenty-four. He died at the age of eighty-four. As I got old," said Humboldt, "I want more sleep—four hours at least. When I was young two hours of sleep were quite enough for me."

On Professor Max Muller's death, he said, "It is a hard saying. Humboldt said, 'It is a mistake, though it is very widely spread, that we want seven or eight hours of sleep. When I was young I simply lay down on the sofa, turned down my lamp and after two hours of sleep I was as fresh as ever.' He lived to be eighty-nine. These examples are to show the concentrated phrase of the hagiographers, more for admiration than for imitation, but they serve to show that longevity and small allowance of sleep are not in all cases incompatible.—British Medical Journal.

PREPARING FOR SANTA FE ROAD.
Golden Gate People Getting Ready for Good Work.

The Golden Gate Improvement Club is going to renew its efforts to develop that section of town in anticipation of the coming of the Santa Fe Road.

At the meeting last night if T. Burns stated that the Club should fall in line with the other clubs and work for the wharf propositions. Mr. Burns stated that there is every reason to believe that the Santa Fe Company will be here within eighteen months.

Don J. Miller stated that he had been authorized to inform that as soon as the Contra Costa tunnel is finished the work of changing the gauge of the California & Nevada Road and otherwise altering would begin.

The discussion then changed to the possibility of a street railway franchise along Sixth street which the Realty Syndicate is said to be contemplating. It was the sentiment that the Club should assist any enterprise, no matter by whom projected that gives promise of good results.

C. A. Chichester gave notice that at the next meeting he would introduce an amendment to the constitution to the effect that the meetings be held every two weeks. There was some debate on the matter. J. M. Rourke and H. T. Burns expressing themselves in opposition to the amendment.

An invitation was received from Cradle Sharp to attend the next lecture of Hon. F. X. Schomaker which will be given in Hamilton Hall tonight.

The meeting then adjourned until next Thursday when the question of changing the meeting time will be discussed.

NO PERFECT VISION.
Of the many curious facts which are discussed concerning the eye, what is known as "the blind spot" seems the least understood. In the eye, which contains things may go on which give us wrong sensations, which, although not truly illusions, are very much like them. Thus, when we suddenly strike our heads or faces against something in the dark, we see "stars" or bright sparks, which we know are not real lights, though they are quite as bright and sparkling as if they were. When we close one eye and look straight ahead at some word or letter in the middle of this page, for example, by which it operates upon the brain, by which it operates upon the brain, by which it operates upon the brain.

COOKS ARE BORN, NOT MADE.
"Good cooks are born, like poets," said Major J. B. Quinn. "Once upon a time I bought a lot of turnips for a government snaffle, on one of the interior waterways, and visiting it not long afterward, was surprised to find lemon pie being served out to all hands for dinner."

HOW THE BRAIN WORKS.
How does thought transform itself into action, or, in other words, what is the process which takes place in the brain, by which it operates upon the nerves? Senior Romney Cajal, the celebrated Spanish anatomist, has worked out a theory which appears to answer this question. According to him, each cell of the gray matter is an independent organ, being connected with the other cells by neighboring only so long as it is in a state of repose. But he imagines that when it is stirred up by any impression from the outside world it gives off a series of movements called "impulses." Thus, if a sudden idea takes place in your brain it is because one of the independent cells or, as he calls them, "neurons," has awoken to activity and has shot out a sudden extrusion like the movement of a piston in a steam engine, thereby sending up the neighboring cells into activity; when, on the contrary, after a long intellectual effort your brain seems to refuse the drafts you are making upon it, it is because the piston of neurons has become exhausted and has returned to its normal state of inactivity, as a small device in its horns.—Fall Mail Gazette.

HE SENT THE PORK.
Professor Cornstock of Cornell in speaking to his class on the trial of scientists told this authentic tale of an experience of a professor of invertebrate zoology in a sister institution, which had better be left nameless.

Trichine in pork, the cause of the frightful disease trichinosis in human consumers, gives a peculiar appearance to meat, which is studded with little cysts. It is then known to the trade as "measly pork." The learned scientist, wishing some for study, went to the butcher and asked if he ever got any measly pork.

"Sometimes," said the butcher cautiously, "but I always throw it away."

"Well," said the professor, "the next time you have any I wish you'd send me up some," meaning, of course, to his laboratory.

The butcher stared at him, but said he would. Three weeks passed, when the professor, growing impatient, again dropped in.

"Haven't you found any measly pork yet?"

"Why, yes," said the butcher, "I sent up two pounds a week ago."

A sickly grin broke over the professor's face.

"Where did you send it?" said he.

"Why, to your house, of course," said the butcher.—Kansas City Times.

"ASLEEP!"
Did you hear me when I called you, Love? And lay so fast asleep? Did you listen when I whispered Through your slumbers calm and deep? Summer roses lay beside you, Slender lilies white and tall, And you looked so still and saintly, Did you feel my tearsdrops fall?

O, my darling, but I murmured Words so wildly true and fond, Were you dreaming there serenely Of the strange and vast Beyond? When I whispered how I loved you, Not a flicker crossed your face, But you lay all pale and placid In that solitary place.

Did you hear me when I called you, Love? You lay so fast asleep? And stillness seemed so holy, That I scarcely dared to weep— Scarcely dared to take a rosebud, Crushed and crumbled, to my breast, When I left you calmly sleeping In your everlasting rest.—London Sun.
